About Us

Introduction

Ummeed The Hope Special School, an initiative of the Ummeed Foundation, has been a beacon of hope and support for children with special needs since its inception. Established in 2011, our school has been dedicated to providing personalized education and care for children facing various challenges.

Our History

The story of Ummeed began with Mr. Parvez Farid, who faced a deeply personal challenge. In 2010, Parvez was trying to find a suitable school for his nephew, Salman, who was born with a mental disorder. Despite numerous attempts, no school in Mumbai was willing to admit Salman. The only options available were a government school in Thane and private schools with long waiting periods. This struggle for Salman was a wake-up call for Parvez.

In the face of this unnerving challenge, Parvez decided to take matters into his own hands. He began educating Salman himself and soon realized that many other children like Salman were in similar situations. Driven by a passion to make a difference, Parvez founded Ummeed, meaning 'hope,' with the vision to provide quality education and support for children with special needs.

Initially starting by renting rooms, Ummeed The Hope Special School has grown significantly over the years. We are now privileged to operate in premises allotted by the Thane Municipal Corporation, allowing us to extend our reach and services.

Our Mission & Vision

Our mission is to create a nurturing environment where every child with special needs receives the education, care, and support they deserve. We aim to:

- Provide personalized education tailored to each child's unique needs.
- Enhance physical, social, and emotional development through comprehensive therapies.
- Foster independence and self-reliance in daily activities.
- Promote inclusivity and understanding within the community.
